African Style - When you think of Africa, there may be several different kinds of decoration that come to mind. One is the traditional African-American cultural decorating theme, while you might also consider the Serengeti and a more natural type of concept.

Art Deco - Art Deco interior design has a very unique look. Some might call it "classic retro style". Whatever the case, you can use elements of this style to define a living space with distinct personality that stands out from the crowd.

Arts and Crafts - Arts and Crafts style interior design revolves around finely crafted furniture and interior features - usually of wood. The natural colors and patterns of wood and stone are the inspiration for Arts and Crafts Decorating. Simple and clean lines give rooms a sleek yet warm look.

Asian - Though various decorative styles originate on the world's largest continent, the Asian interior design style has largely been influenced by Chinese and Japanese culture. If your life is hectic and you've been wishing for an interior style that promotes serenity, this Oriental approach may be the one for you. The Asian style carries a strong emphasis on peace and order.

Bohemian - Bohemian living embraces all cultures and lifestyles and tends to take on a decidedly ethnic look. The bold and colorful patterns of India, Asia, Africa, and the Middle East feel right at home. Saris, hassocks, and other ethnic pieces frequently find their way into Bohemian interiors. When you walk into a home decorated in a bohemian style it feels like you could be anywhere in the world.

Casual Chic - This country style is a blend of patterns and colors that is inviting and homey. A mix of patterns and textures make a room rich and welcoming.

Classical - With a nod to the architecture and imagery of the Greek and Roman empires, classical interior design is based on order, symmetry and balance.

Colonial - Go back in time...The American Colonial Style covers the period from the first early settlers in the sixteenth century - mostly European - to the Declaration of Independence in the eighteenth century.

Contemporary - Clean-lined is often how contemporary interior design is described, and for good reason. This modern approach focuses first and foremost on function and avoids the excessive ornamentation evident in many other styles.

Cottage Style - One of the more popular decorating styles today is cottage style decorating, and it's no wonder since it's light and breezy style is well-suited to today's informal lifestyles. Cottage decorating is a mixture of light colors, comfortable fabrics and furniture and accessories that is easy on the eyes with a vintage appeal.

English or French Country - Country interior design is all about lived-in comfort. The emphasis is on natural materials, handcrafted features and time-worn charm. I find it very cozy.

Eclectic - Do you already have a number of objects and pieces of furniture you love but don't fit into one coherent design style?

Global - global style has long been a part of the most beautiful rooms. The British have always valued the wonderful treasures brought home from the colonies, the Orient and Russia. English country decorating incorporates, among others, blue-and-white export china, Japanese Imari and Indian sari fabrics.

Gothic - You may wonder, "Is Gothic interior design still popular in the twenty-first century"? It may seem surprising that a decorative style prominent in the Middle Ages would have devoted admirers today, but it shouldn't be. There is much to love about this style's compelling, mystical charm.

Mexican and Hispanic - For a colorful and unique style in your home, you might decorate with the Mexican decorating. Using colorful tiles and pottery combined with spicy colors like red and cobalt blue you can create an inviting look in any home. Get the feeling of Mexico with Mexican décor no matter where your property is.

Modern Style - If you like uncluttered, streamlined, sleek and open spaces, then you probably love Modern style. Modern style has its roots in the Bauhaus school with its emphasis on angular lines and lack of ornamentation. Equally influential was Scandinavian style which stressed minimalism, mass production, and simple, functional forms.

Moroccan Style - If you're looking to bring an exotic yet elegant feel to your home, you should consider the elegantly mysterious elements found in Moroccan style décor. The Morocco style can be seen as a captivating oasis and is now hot in the US, imposing its magic in the exclusive pueblo designed homes of Santa Fe including California and its introduction into New York. Retro - A room can provide the perfect platform for vintage collectors and flea-market shoppers to display their most treasured finds Rustic - Rustic interior design emphasizes unrefined, natural elements that together look and feel quite cozy. This style is particularly suited to rural, woodland regions because it takes its inspiration from the untamed landscape.

Southwestern - The wide-open spaces and spare look of the Southwestern landscape inspire Southwestern design. The furnishings may be minimal, but a Southwestern room is filled with character.

Swedish Gustavian - Swedish interior design style is characterized by a look that is light, airy and elegant. Whether classic in emphasis, country or contemporary in direction, this style underscores an elegant and refreshing atmosphere.

Traditional - Traditional interior design is perhaps the most popular style in America today. It has roots in earlier generations but still manages to embrace the present with style and comfort. Traditional home decorating -- frequently associated with older generations -- has been updated with a look that young families can embrace.

Tropical - Surrounding yourself with a tropical interior design scheme is one way to indulge your taste for exotic lands. Feel the essence of old Bombay or the breezy majesty of Martinique as you spend time with family and friends.

Tuscan - Tuscan interior design evokes the sun-kissed fields and vineyards of Italy. It's a warm, old world look that makes you feel instantly at home.

Victorian Style - Victorian decorating means over-abundance and luxury and that is seen in the Victorian home décor which is still popular in the modern 21st century. The Victorian decorating comprises of antique accessories and modern methods that can completely make your house outstanding. There are many creative and excellent ideas that can fit well in your modern homes and still can be adorable in the traditional and gracious Victorian theme.
